Projects basics

In this article:

- Create projects
- Edit projects
- Manage projects

In TimeCamp, projects are groups of tasks. From a technical point of view, there are not many differences between projects and tasks. For example, you can create a project named after your client, to which you will later add multiple subtasks converting your business relations.

Projects in TimeCamp have a tree structure, they contain lists of tasks. You can use a project for a larger goal and a task for an action someone in your team needs to take in order to achieve that goal. You can create an unlimited tree structure that will contain projects with multiple tasks and subtasks which can have even 3/4/5.. levels of items.

Limits of adding projects in certain subscription plans

Free plan: unlimited number of projects (level 1). No tasks or subtasks;

Starter plan: unlimited number of projects (level 1) and tasks (level 2). No subtasks;

Premium and Ultimate plans: unlimited number of projects, tasks, and subtasks on all levels.

You can find the Projects section on the left side menu. The bar above your projects, where you have added your projects, is also a search box, where you can search for specific projects. Next to it, you have filters, an icon with two arrows that can collapse or hide all tasks, an Archived button that shows only archived projects, and a three-dot icon that allows you to import the list of projects.
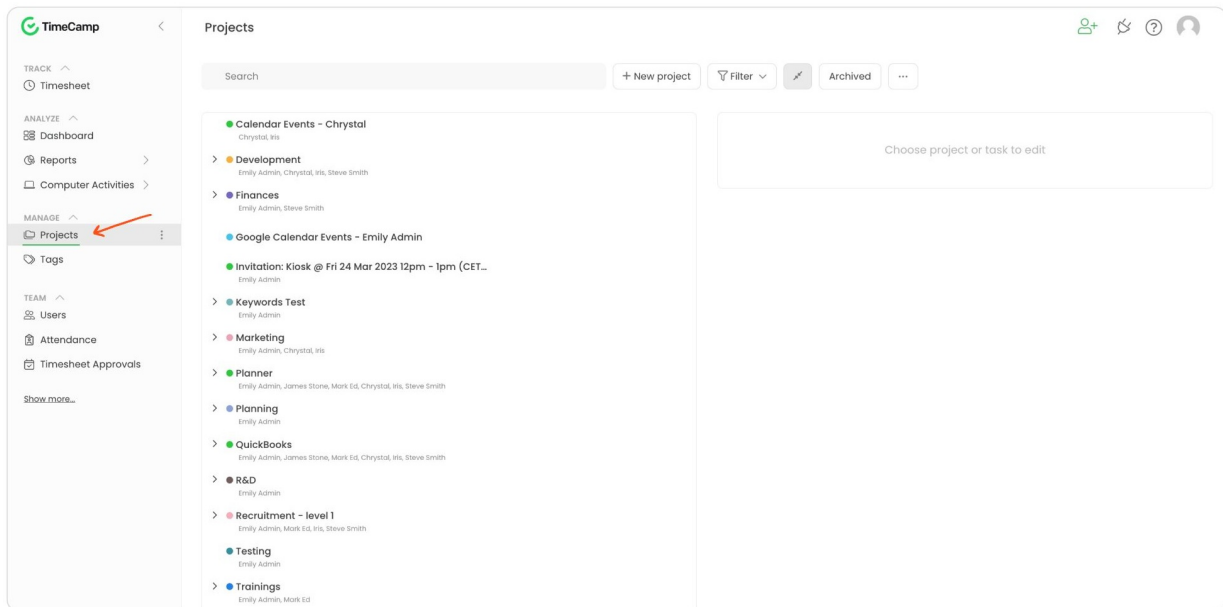

Create projects

You can create projects and tasks from two places on the website:

- Projects - go to the Projects tab on the left-side menu, then click the New Project button. Name the project and save it by clicking the Create New Project button.

  To add a task or subtask click or hover the mouse cursor on the target project and click on the "plus" button. Next, input its name in the Edit panel and save changes.

After the list of projects and tasks is created you can edit its details at any time. To do that click on the name of a specific task and the Edit panel will be opened on the right-hand side.
